UNIVERSITY OF LAGOS

TRAINING OPPORTUNITIES FROM SOME COLLABORATING UNIVERSITIES FOR UNILAG FACULTIES AND STUDENTS

1. LFS Financial Systems Future Leaders Programme / Trainee MSME Banking 2016 in Germany

LFS is a German consulting and management firm specialized in Micro, Small and Medium Enterprise (MSME) finance projects in developing and transition countries. LFS' main clients and partners are international financial institutions and development agencies including the European Bank for Reconstruction and Development (EBRD), the European Investment Bank (EIB), the International Finance Corporation (IFC), KfW Development Bank, and the World Bank. In addition to the provision of advisory services to banks and non-banks in the MSME finance field, LFS is the founder and lead investor in Access Microfinance Holding AG in Berlin, Germany, which operates a growing network of currently ten microfinance banks, all of which are managed by LFS.

We are looking in Africa, South America and the Central Asian region for candidates to join our Future Leaders Programme / Trainee MSME Banking

TC/LFS01

Structure of the Future Leaders Programme

The aim of our Future Leaders Programme is to acquaint new staff with the LFS lending methodology and tools as well as with the roles and responsibilities in a micro, small and medium enterprise (MSME) finance bank. The nine-months training takes place in an Access network bank in Sub-Saharan Africa or the Caucasus. In the event of excellent performance, the nine-month period of the training programme may be shortened.

An additional goal of the Future Leaders Programme will be to enhance the Trainees' management skills to prepare them for their future management tasks. After the training, Junior Banking Advisors are ready to take over first management responsibilities in another Access network bank.

The training location is selected based on the experience and language skills of the trainee, as well as on project capacities and vacancies. Throughout the training, trainees are involved in the daily operations of the bank. Trainees are part of the LFS team on the ground and cooperate closely with the local staff in the bank.

Content of the Future Leaders Programme

According to our experience, the best way of gaining knowledge and skills is training on the job. Therefore, throughout the training, trainees are directly involved in the operations of the Access network bank. A large part of the training usually takes place in the credit department. Trainees accompany loan officers and/or build up their own portfolio of microloans. This enables trainees to acquire a good understanding of the micro lending technology as well as the products and customers of the bank. For most trainees, the work as a Loan Officer is a challenging but very rewarding experience, especially in view of future tasks in management and consulting roles. The training also involves getting to know non-credit departments of the bank, namely the retail department (Client Advisors, Cashiers, Back Officers, and alternative channel projects) and head office functions. Also, trainees participate in branch and bank activities that take place in the course of the Future Leaders Programme.

Finally, as a preparation for future management tasks, assisting the Branch Manager, participating in technical and soft skills trainings, and taking on some consulting and management tasks in the LFS team are valuable experiences.

What happens after the training?

As LFS Banking Advisor and during the training, you will spend more time in markets and in clients' shops and houses than in an office, especially in the beginning of your career.

The work within local teams requires a high degree of intercultural sensitivity, communication and leadership skills. Those have to complement the obligatory technical skills.

A career with LFS involves long-term stays in developing and transition countries (up to several years).

LFS tries to consider country and regional preferences of LFS Trainees and Banking Advisors; however, they may have to be subordinated to the capacities and requirements of projects and the company.

Required skills, qualifications and experience

Master's degree in finance or finance-related field, economics, business, microfinance, or agriculture;

Apprenticeship in banking or finance sector would be advantageous;

Interest in a long-term career in the field of microfinance;

First work experience or internships in the field of Branchless Banking, particularly Digital Finance;

2 years professional experience, including first relevant experiences, e.g. in SME and/or Agri-Finance, and (Corporate) Finance are an asset;

Living or work experience in a developing or transition economy,

Excellent command of English and preferably one of the following languages: Arabic, French, Portuguese or Russian. Additional languages would be an asset;

Motivation for a long-term assignment in developing or transition countries;

Evidence of a sense of responsibility, intercultural awareness, creativity and commitment to excellence.

How to introduce yourself

Applications, including a covering letter and CV, should be submitted online: <https://career.lfs-consulting.de/Jobs/Job?Job=27075>

2. TED Fellows Program

Twice a year, the TED Fellows program opens applications to find a new class of extraordinary thinkers and doers. Though we target innovators aged 21 to 40, we encourage anyone over 18 years old to apply.

How to apply

The TED2017 Fellowship application is now open through Saturday, July 30 2016 at 11:59pm UTC.

Application cycle dates

Each year we open two application cycles: one for TED and one for TEDGlobal. Each application cycle has an opening and closing date – you may only apply to be a Fellow between the opening and closing dates. We do not accept applications during the dates that fall outside of the application cycle window.

Dates for the TED2017 application cycle is as follows:

TED2017 application cycle

Opening date: June 13, 2016

Closing date: July 30, 2016

TEDGlobal 2017 application cycle

Opening date: October 3, 2016

Closing date: November 20, 2016

Who should apply

We look for different applicants than many other leadership-oriented programs. Instead of business people, professionals, policy wonks and government officials, the TED Fellows program focuses on doers, makers, inventors, advocates, filmmakers and photographers, musicians and artists, scientists, entrepreneurs, NGO heads, and human rights activists.

In addition to impressive accomplishment, fine character and a good heart are two very important traits we look for in every potential TED Fellow. More than anything, this focus on character has defined the success of the TED Fellows program.

The application process

Candidates may apply to attend either TED or TEDGlobal. We welcome anyone over the age of 18 to apply. We choose 20 Fellows to attend each TED Conference.

The selection process

TED Fellows are selected by the program staff, with extensive reference checking and consultation with experts across all fields. Selections are made by the group as a whole, not by individuals. There is no algorithm for how we select our TED Fellows. We select Fellows based on their accomplishments in their respective fields, the potential impact of their work and also, most importantly, their character. The ideal applicant is multidisciplinary in their pursuits, and is at a moment in their career to maximize the support of the TED Community.

4. Ideas Matter Doctoral Fellowships for West Africa: Investing in the future of scholarship

Deadline for applications: July 30, 2016

The West African Research Association (WARA), in collaboration with The MasterCard Foundation, is pleased to announce support for young West African scholars through its new Ideas Matter Doctoral Fellowship program. This program reflects our joint commitment to increasing opportunities for emerging West African scholars, people who are transforming ideas into active solutions to the challenges facing the region and the world at large.

In 2016, the Ideas Matter Doctoral Fellowship program will award three doctoral research grants of $4,000 each. In addition to a 1500 word proposal, budget, CV, two letters of recommendation, applicants must submit a statement explaining how their research will contribute to meeting critical needs on the continent.

The Ideas Matter Doctoral Fellowship is open to doctoral students under age 35 who are based in West African institutions of higher education, for research on the continent.

Priority will be given to research projects focusing on women, technology and entrepreneurship.

West Africa, like other parts of the world, is rich in intellectual resources. Universities are home to scholarly communities of scientists, historians, artists, and social scientists. Young scholars in the region are carrying out innovative, cutting edge research in agriculture, technology, the humanities, and a wide range of other fields. They are poised to deliver innovative solutions to challenges posed by the changing climate, demographic shifts, and cultural transformations that mark our times. The Ideas Matter Doctoral Fellowship program will support the research initiatives of young scholars.

All applications must be submitted online at https://fs9.formsite.com/westafricanresearchassociation/form31/form_login.html

5. Science Forum South Africa

Science Forum South Africa is calling for thematic session proposals for the Forum.

The 2016 Forum will have a specific focus on the social sciences and humanities, as well as the role of science in Africa's development.

The deadline for the submission of proposals is Friday, 15 July 2016.

Key objectives of the Forum

- To create a platform for a vibrant debate on the role of science, technology and innovation in society;
- To promote international science, technology and innovation partnerships; and

- To create a platform for key science, technology and innovation actors, including senior government leaders, academics, scientists, industry, civil society, and students to interact.

Key attributes of the Forum

- A provocative and stimulating forum programme comprising several parallel sessions, addressing a diverse range of science and science policy orientated themes;
- A rich diversity in the background of participants, comprising scientists, students, public and private sector representatives as well as civil society constituents;
- A forum programme not only compiled “top-down” by the organisers but also enabling public input through a competitive call for proposals for the organisation of sessions; and
- A strong international dimension to the event, reflected by the participation of speakers and attendees from a diverse range of countries, especially from Africa.

The submission is open from 3 June 2016 and the deadline for session proposals is 15 July 2016.

Proposals will be evaluated by the SFSA2016 Programme Committee (PC).

The PC may request revisions to some proposal(s).

Proponents whose proposals have been accepted or rejected will be informed no later than 12 August 2016.

Apply here: <http://www.sfsa.co.za/call-for-proposals/proposal-submission/>

8. AREF Research Development Fellowships 2016

AREF Research Development Fellowships 2016

The Africa Research Excellence Fund is pleased to announce its second annual call for applications for AREF Research Development Fellowships. The aim of the Programme is to enhance the research competitiveness of early-career African researchers who have research leadership potential and are working on important challenges for human health in Africa.

The Fellowship is designed to enable talented, early-career African researchers to develop their own research ideas and specialist skills, to grow their research relationships through collaboration and mentorship, and to work towards a major research funding proposal. The Fellowship is designed to be a stepping-stone towards more substantial research funding.

Each AREF Fellowship will support a developmental placement of three-to-nine months in a leading research organisation in Europe or South Africa.

The details are similar to those of the 2015 competition. However, an innovation for 2016, based on feedback last year from potential and actual applicants, is that some funding will be available for a “planned follow-through” in the awardee’s employing institution after she or he has returned from their placement.

The maximum award is 43,000 GB Pounds. The length of the placement and actual amount awarded will depend on the detailed justification provided by the applicant actively supported by their employing and host institutions. Applicants will need to demonstrate a credible, ambitious vision for their research on a human-health challenge for Africa; and a transformational, well-supported development plan that would be significantly enhanced by the Fellowship.

Applications with an ambitious, developmental plan that prepares the way for the applicant to tackle a challenging research question with further grant or fellowship funding will be more successful than those that seek just to pack a conventional research project and some training into nine months abroad. The applicants must own their plans themselves, while demonstrating they have the support of key individuals on whom their success will depend.

While the Fellowship is designed as a stepping-stone for individuals, AREF wishes to enable their African home institutions to grow and succeed by nurturing their research talent. Potential applicants are therefore encouraged to discuss their plans at an early stage with their employing and potential host organisations – so that the Fellowship can be a “win-win-win” for all three parties.

We are keen to receive high quality applications from both women and men; from diverse research disciplines – including social and economic sciences, veterinary (“one health”) researchers, and clinically-active researchers; and from franco-, luso- and anglophone low-and-middle income countries of Sub-Saharan Africa.

The deadline for receipt of applications is 1600 hours (GMT) on 6 July 2016. Our first awards will be announced December 2016.

To hold an AREF Research Development Fellowship, you will need to meet the following eligibility criteria;

1. be a national of a country in sub-Saharan Africa excluding South Africa;
2. be a post-doctoral scientist with a PhD, with up to 4-years of active research experience on 1 July 2016; or be an active clinician with a relevant Master's degree and up to 3-years active research experience;
3. be working in an active research role at the time of applying, with a guarantee of employment with a university or other legally established research organisation in sub-Saharan Africa for the duration of your fellowship; and
4. submit the required documentation, including declarations from your home and host organisations detailing how they will support your development as a researcher, if you receive an award.

19. Harvard University Academy Scholars Program

This program is open to all recent PhD recipients and doctoral candidates.

The Academy Scholars Program identifies and supports outstanding scholars at the start of their careers whose work combines disciplinary excellence in the social sciences (including history and law) with a command of the language, history, or culture of non-Western countries or regions. Their scholarship may elucidate domestic, comparative, or transnational issues, past or present.

The Academy Scholars are a select community of individuals with resourcefulness, initiative, curiosity, and originality, whose work in non-Western cultures or regions shows promise as a foundation for exceptional careers in major universities or international institutions.

Academy Scholars are appointed for two years by The Harvard Academy for International and Area Studies and are provided time, guidance, and access to Harvard University facilities. They receive substantial financial and research assistance to undertake sustained projects of research and/or acquire accessory training in their chosen fields and areas. The Senior Scholars, a distinguished group of senior Harvard University faculty members, act as mentors to the Academy Scholars to help them achieve their intellectual potential.

How to Apply

All application materials need to arrive by the deadline of October 1. We do not accept late applications.

The completed application will include:

- Cover letter
- Curriculum vitae (CV) or resumé
- Research proposal (2500 word maximum)
- Official PhD program transcript
- Three letters of recommendation (uploaded through the online application)

Letters should be addressed to the "Selection Committee." Letters of recommendation need to arrive by the deadline of October 1.

The online application is accessed through the homepage of The Harvard Academy's website. All parts of the application are submitted online.
